Office Hours: By appointment (at least 24 hours in advance)

Policy about course outlines can be found in Course Requirements, Evaluation Procedures and Grading of the University Calendar.

Course Prerequisite: SOC 100, or PSYCO 104 or 105, or consent of instructor.

Note: SOC 241 and PSYCO 241 may not both be taken for credit.

Course Description:

As the scientific study of how the real, imagined, or implied presence of others influences a person’s thoughts, feelings, and behaviours, Social Psychology is a vast field that explores many of the things that we encounter in our daily lives.

In order to learn about the science behind social psychology, we will examine a wide range of well-known, classic studies that: ask big questions (for example, why do we conform and obey?); present challenging findings (including the willingness of 65% of participants to deliver a lethal electric shock to another person when asked by an experimenter); and utilize demanding (and in some cases controversial) research methods.

From a sociological perspective, the course will primarily consist of a detailed examination of the Dramaturgical Perspective, a microsociological approach to exploring and explaining social interactions in everyday life; most famously described by the theorist Erving Goffman. We will learn about impression management (how people manufacture effective social personas), and symbolic interactionism (how the social transmission of meaning influences a person’s thoughts, feelings, and behaviours).

In addition to learning about face-to-face and ‘real world’ interactions, this course will explore virtual social processes through such mediums as video games, Facebook, YouTube, and Twitch.
Course Objectives:

- Understand historical contexts, key arguments, and uses of diverse theoretical and methodological approaches in sociology/social psychology.
- Analyze sociological research findings through explorations of key experiments in social psychology.
- Rigorously read and critically evaluate classical and contemporary sociological texts.
- Draw on diverse sociological theories, methods, and content knowledge to critically situate individual experience within broader social contexts and relationships and question assumptions about social phenomena.
- Develop core skills required to evaluate information in multiple forms – oral, written, visual, and digital.

Optional Additional Book: “The Presentation of Self in Everyday Life” by Erving Goffman. 1956. (There will be a copy available in the bookstore, but any version will do).

Additional Required Readings: Any additional readings will be assigned via eClass, with the appropriate link to the journal article available through the University of Alberta Library. You will have to login to the library website using your U of A CCID and password (the ones used to access Beartracks and eClass.)

Class Format:

The classes will consist of lectures, in-class discussions, and small group activities. Required readings will be assigned via eClass and in-class and made readily available as soon as they are known - at least 1 class ahead of when they need to be done. We are not going to follow a strict lecture content schedule in order to remain flexible to the needs and pace of the class, but don’t worry, you will be given sufficient notice to allow you to complete required readings.

Audio or video recording, digital or otherwise, of lectures, labs, seminars or any other teaching environment by students is allowed only with the prior written consent of the instructor or as a part of an approved accommodation plan. Student or instructor content, digital or otherwise, created and/or used within the context of the course is to be used solely for personal study, eClass:

Course material, including Powerpoint Slides, required readings, and assignment information, will be made available through eClass. Students can access eClass by visiting the University of Alberta home page and clicking on eClass. A brief walkthrough will be provided on the first day of class.

Grade Distribution/Assignment Descriptions:

1) Character Creation Worksheet: (10% of final grade)

You will be asked to develop a character using a worksheet that will be provided via eClass. A walkthrough of how to create a character, as well as what to think about while creating your character, will be given in class on Friday January 12th. This character will be used to complete assignments and answer some exam questions. Once you hand in the character sheet on January 24th, you will not be able to change it, so start thinking about what kind of ‘persona’ you might be interested in developing and performing (through your written work). If you have ever played a role-playing game (Dungeons & Dragons for example), written a piece of fiction where you developed a main character, or have daydreamed about being someone else, then you should have no problem.

2) Character Response 1: (15% of final grade)

Assignment details will be provided in class, as well as on eClass, following completion of the character creation worksheet. Generally, this will be a 1-2 page written response to a topic/experiment discussed in class, performed through the perspective of your character. I will provide a list of topics/experiments to choose from as well as a detailed marking rubric. This assignment will be due on February 14th.

3) Mid-Term Exam: (20% of final grade)

This exam will take place during class on Wednesday March 7th and will consist of multiple choice and short answer questions. A review will be given in class on Monday March 5th.

4) Character Response 2: (25% of final grade)

Assignment details will be provided in class, as well as on eClass, following completion of character response 1. Generally, this will be a 2-3 page written response to a topic/experiment discussed in class, performed through the perspective of your character. I will provide a list of topics/experiments to choose from as well as a detailed marking rubric. As the second character response assignment, I will expect more detail and a more comprehensive knowledge of how to weave the course material into your written response, hence the higher percentage. This assignment will be due on March 28th.

5) Final Exam: (30% of final grade)

This exam will take place during the scheduled exam period (April 16th – April 28th), the exact date will be announced in class and on Beartracks. The exam will consist of multiple-choice, short answer, and long answer questions and should take no longer than 2 hours to complete. More details will be provided in the weeks leading up to the exam, and we will have 1 or 2 in-class reviews to help you prepare. Sample questions will be provided via eClass a few weeks before the end of class and will be discussed during the reviews.

Policy for Late Submissions:

A printed copy of all assignments are to be handed in at the beginning of class on their respective due dates. If you are not able to hand in your assignments by the due date, contact the instructor immediately. Acceptance of late submission is at the sole discretion of the instructor, who may request supporting documentation (see University Calendar) and may deduct 10% from the assignment grade per day the assignment is late.
Exams:
- Your University of Alberta Student ID card will be required at all the exams.
- Students may not enter the final exam area after the first 30 minutes has elapsed. Students may not leave the final exam area until the first 30 minutes has elapsed.
- Cell phones must be turned completely off during both exams.
- Bring a pencil and pen to all exams.
- The final exam IS cumulative – it will cover material from the entire course.

Missed Exams:
Please note that if you miss the midterm exam, you must inform me within two days of the originally scheduled exam, or as soon as you can with due regard to the circumstance. Students with an excused absence from the midterm exam will have their midterm rescheduled. Approval for an excused absence is at the sole discretion of the instructor, who may request supporting documentation.

If you miss the final exam, you must contact your own Faculty Undergraduate Student Services office within two working days of the missed exam, or as soon as you can, in regards to the circumstance. Instructors do not have authority to grant or deny requests for deferred final exams. Any deferrals will follow the deferral schedule of the Department of Sociology. The department set date for deferred final exams is Saturday, May 5th, 2018 in BUS 1-10 at 9:00am.

Regarding absences that may be excusable and procedures for addressing course components missed as a result, consult the Attendance section of the University of Alberta Calendar.

Grading Scheme:
Final grades are not scaled or curved. Grades will be calculated based on raw scores for exams and assignments and will not be rounded up. The cumulative percentage score will be converted into a letter grade as described in the table below:

Appealing grades:

Changing a grade for an assignment is at the instructor’s discretion. If you believe that you deserve a higher grade than you received, you can appeal the grade using the following steps:

1. Read the instructor’s feedback. Wait 24 hours.

2. Reread the instructor’s feedback.

3. Write a ½ - 1 page single spaced constructive letter stating the grade you feel you deserve and the criteria on which you are basing your arguments (use the materials suggested in this syllabus and the written assignment instruction handout).

4. Send the letter by e-mail. Also submit the letter in hard copy with your paper or presentation attached to the instructor’s mailbox in the Department of Sociology office.

5. The instructor will respond within 3 business days and set up an appointment to meet with you in person to further discuss, if necessary.

Classroom Policies:

- Regular attendance is essential for optimal performance in any course and will assist you in succeeding in this course.
- Students are expected to be in class on time and stay until the end of the lecture. If you are unable to do so, please discuss with instructor before class.
- Mutual respect between student and instructor and between students is expected at all times (also see Learning and Work Environment section below).
- Students are encouraged to be engaged during lectures, discussions, and activities by asking questions and offering comments. However, students are discouraged from having side conversations while the instructor is lecturing or a student is speaking because it is disrespectful and it detracts from everyone’s learning experience.
- Students are expected to review the required readings and other materials prior to class so that we can have informed and relevant discussions.
- Taking lecture notes is the student’s responsibility. The instructor will provide some PowerPoint slides but not lecture notes to students. If a student misses a lecture, they could ask their classmates for notes.
- The links to audio/visual material presented in class will be made available on eClass, they may be examined on tests and are relevant for written assignments.
- Electronics are to be turned on silent during lectures and off during exams (except under exceptional circumstances in which approval has been granted by the instructor).
Other Notes:

E-mail: Students are required to check and use their University of Alberta email accounts for all U of A communication. Emails sent from accounts other than the U of A will not be opened or responded to. Please use formal language and proper grammar in your e-mail. Allow 2 business days for instructor to respond and if you do not hear back by then, check to see if it is the correct e-mail address and try again.

Academic Integrity: The University of Alberta considers plagiarism and cheating to be serious academic offences. You can receive a grade of F, lose scholarships or admission, be suspended, as well as be resented by your peers.

“The University of Alberta is committed to the highest standards of academic integrity and honesty. Students are expected to be familiar with these standards regarding academic honesty and to uphold the policies of the University in this respect. Students are particularly urged to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the Code of Student Behaviour (online at www.governance.ualberta.ca) and avoid any behaviour which could potentially result in suspicions of cheating, plagiarism, misrepresentation of facts and/or participation in an offence. Academic dishonesty is a serious offence and can result in suspension or expulsion from the University.”
