Course Description:

How are we formed as individuals? What freedom or agency do we have in determining who we are and how we act? How is knowledge – of ourselves and of the world we live in - enmeshed in relations of power?

This course will investigate these questions through an examination of the relationship between power and subjectivity. We will explore how power operates through various processes including morality, culture, punishment and surveillance, racialization, colonization, the regulation of sexuality, gender, and our relationships with other species. In doing so, we will examine how relations of power result in both forms of oppression and possibilities for resistance and transformation.

In this course we will explore key theorists and debates on power and subjectivity in order to gain the tools to think critically about contemporary society. Students will identify basic frameworks and concepts of social theories and apply them to contemporary social processes and current events. The course will also encourage students to think conceptually and to improve their skills in critical analysis and oral and written communication.
Learning Outcomes:

Upon completion of the course students should be able to:

1. Develop skills in close reading and critical analysis of major texts in social theory
2. Comprehend key concepts in contemporary social theory including morality and culture, the regulation of bodies, race and colonialism, feminist theory, and technology
3. Explore how contemporary social issues reflect and challenge developments in social theory
4. Examine evolving relationships between power and subjectivity through a variety of theoretical lenses

Policy for Late Assignments
Late papers and final exams will be marked down 5% percent for each day past the deadline, and will not be accepted after one week past the deadline. Please contact me in advance if you will have difficulty meeting a deadline for health or personal reasons.

Required Notes
“Policy about course outlines can be found in Course Requirements, Evaluation Procedures and Grading of the University Calendar.”

Academic Integrity
“The University of Alberta is committed to the highest standards of academic integrity and honesty. Students are expected to be familiar with these standards regarding academic honesty and to uphold the policies of the University in this respect. Students are particularly urged to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the Code of Student Behaviour (online at http://www.governance.ualberta.ca/en/CodesofConductandResidenceCommunityStandards/CodeofStudentBehaviour.aspx ) and avoid any behaviour that could potentially result in suspicions of cheating, plagiarism, misrepresentation of facts and/or participation in an offence. Academic dishonesty is a serious offence and can result in suspension or expulsion from the University.”

Learning and working environment
The Faculty of Arts is committed to ensuring that all students, faculty and staff are able to work and study in an environment that is safe and free from discrimination and harassment. It does not tolerate behaviour that undermines that environment. The department urges anyone who feels that this policy is being violated to:

• Discuss the matter with the person whose behaviour is causing concern; or
• If that discussion is unsatisfactory, or there is concern that direct discussion is inappropriate or threatening, discuss it with the Chair of the Department. For additional advice or assistance regarding this policy you may contact the Office of the Student Ombuds. Information about the University of Alberta Discrimination and Harassment Policy and Procedures is described in UAPPOL.

Academic Honesty

All students should consult the information provided by Student Conduct and Accountability regarding avoiding cheating and plagiarism in particular and academic dishonesty in general (see the Academic Integrity Undergraduate Handbook and Information for Students). If in doubt about what is permitted in this class, ask the instructor.

An instructor or coordinator who is convinced that a student has handed in work that he or she could not possibly reproduce without outside assistance is obliged, out of consideration of fairness to other students, to report the case to the Associate Dean of the Faculty. See the Academic Discipline Process.

Recording of Lectures

“Audio or video recording, digital or otherwise, of lectures, labs, seminars or any other teaching environment by students is allowed only with the prior written consent of the instructor or as a part of an approved accommodation plan. Student or instructor content, digital or otherwise, created and/or used within the context of the course is to be used solely for personal study, and is not to be used or distributed for any other purpose without prior written consent from the content author(s).”

Attendance, Absences, and Missed Grade Components

Regular attendance is essential for optimal performance in any course. In cases of potentially excusable absences due to illness or domestic affliction, notify your instructor by e-mail within two days. Regarding absences that may be excusable and procedures for addressing course components missed as a result, consult the Calendar regarding Attendance and Examinations sections of the University Calendar. Be aware that unexcused absences will result in partial or total loss of the grade for the “attendance and participation” component(s) of a course, as well as for any assignments that are not handed-in or completed as a result.

In this course, attendance and participation is graded based on completion of ongoing in-class assignments.

Student Accessibility Services

If you have special needs that could affect your performance in this class, please let me know during the first week of the term so that appropriate arrangements can be made. If you are not already registered with Student Accessibility Services, contact their office immediately (1-80 SUB; Email sasrec@ualberta.ca; Email; phone 780-492-3381).
