Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research (FGSR) Professional Development – A graduate education is not just about advancing research. Your professional development is also a key part of building your future career. And making yourself competitive in the global market begins the day you arrive on campus. Graduate students can develop professional skills and qualities sought by employers through many U of Alberta resources. From cultivating a teaching portfolio to preparing for careers outside academia, there are sessions and workshops year-round to help you work towards creating a professional development footprint. This is not a requirement that you need to complete in your graduate program but if you wish to pursue this, see further: https://uofa.ualberta.ca/graduate-studies/professional-development
Graduate Students Association – The GSA is the student group that represents all graduate students at the University of Alberta. The GSA exists to help students on an individual and group level. It has four full-time staff members in addition to its elected executive positions filled by graduate students. The GSA has recently begun to offer a Graduate Student Assistance Program (GSAP) which provides all graduate students with 24/7 access to psychological counselling services, as well as access to a wide range of health, wellness and work life services through a company called Human Solutions. On the GSAP, see: www.virtualwellness.ualberta.ca (under “Assistance Programs”). The GSA also provides emergency bursaries each year based on need. See further: http://www.gsa.ualberta.ca/

International Student Services – Located at the International Centre, International Student Services is the main campus resource for international students seeking assistance with immigration as well as financial, academic, or personal issues. See further: http://www.iss.ualberta.ca

Office of Student Judicial Affairs – The Office of Student Judicial Affairs is one of the offices (along with Deans, Directors and Protective Services) delegated by General Faculties Council (GFC) to deal with violations of the Code of Student Behaviour. The office promotes awareness of the Code of Student Behaviour, compliance with the rules, and ethical behaviour. OSJA is also required to address violations of the Code that have been referred by Protective Services, Faculty Offices or other Unit Directors. See further: http://www.osja.ualberta.ca

OmbudService – The University OmbudService is a confidential service focused on ensuring that university processes related to students operate fairly as possible. Staff offer information, advice, and support to student programs. The OmbudService has a designated ombudsperson for graduate students as well as a section on its website called: “Documents Every Graduate Student Should Read” under Student Resources. See further: http://www.ombudservice.ualberta.ca

Postdoctoral Fellows Assistance Program – The Assistance program for Postdoctoral Fellows has been designed to help deal with difficult or stressful events in the lives of PDFs. It provides confidential professional counselling for a broad range of personal and family problems. See further: http://www.hrs.ualberta.ca/HealthandWellness/EFAP/AssistancePrograms.aspx

Safe Disclosure and Human Rights Office – This office provides staff and students with a safe, neutral and confidential space to express concerns regarding issues such as treatment or ethics. They help the client to identify the issue and refer them to the correct area, or help them explore the area of concern without formal intervention.
