Acts such as bullying, misbehaviour detrimental to the camp experience, damage to property, physical harm to other campers or staff are not acceptable at camp. If this behaviour is deemed serious and continuous, we will phone the parent/guardian and ask them to remove the camper and withdraw from camp for the remainder of the week.

Additional Information

ACCOUNTS
For our camps featuring computers and technology, some of the web tools require participants under 13 to be granted parental permissions to create accounts. We will monitor use and provide parents and guardians with access to all accounts created. Internet safety is stressed throughout camps:

- Students are encouraged to not give out any information other than their first names on anything they submit online, specifically Edmodo;
- Some student work may be demonstrated in camps in later years (as exemplars), but no names will be used.

If you have any questions about account creation, please speak to one of the camp leaders.

OPEN HOUSE
For 2016, unlike years previous, we will not be including a graduation day for camps at the end of the week. Parents/guardians will be notified if their camper's camp will feature open-lab invitations on the last day.
